

BIODIVERSITY INFORMATION CENTER:

Attached to Tikauli Forest on East west highway is a research and information center is another useful yet under shadowed place for tourist attraction. Due to lack of attention from stakeholders this center is useless. In the information center parts of animals that are endangered or are on the verge of extinction are preserved. We can also get information on many types of birds that are found nearby. Horn of rare one-horned rhino, tusks of elephant and skin of tiger are also on display in this information center. If this information center is utilized properly there is a chance of preserving a huge knowledge about amazing bio-diversity of Chitwan hence can also be used for tourism development.
